Official opening of Relationships Australia Victoria's relocated Traralgon Centre with free family-friendly activities

Relationships Australia Victoria (RAV) will hold a twilight BBQ on Thursday 16 July 2015 at the official opening of its newly relocated centre at 59 Breed Street, Traralgon.

The centre will provide a range of family-orientated activities from 4 to 7pm with all members of the Gippsland community invited to attend the event. RAV Chief Executive Officer, Dr Andrew Bickerdike, will formally open the centre at 5pm.

RAV's Manager Gippsland, Jo Huggins, said the evening is an opportunity for the community to engage with RAV and the centre.

"Our centre provides diverse support and community education services to residents of Traralgon and the wider Gippsland region," Ms Huggins said.

"We invite members of the community to join us and enjoy the wide range of free entertainment that will be available, including face painting, puppet shows, a barbecue and plenty of games.

"Visitors can also tour the centre, find out about our services and speak to our staff about the work that we do."

RAV is a community-based, not-for-profit organisation providing services from 12 centres located across Victoria. We provide high quality and comprehensive services that assist families and children to overcome challenges, grow and thrive.

Ends

There will be interview opportunities following the formal launch at 5pm.
